Teaching languages

Dutch, German

Keywords

German; Consecutive interpreting Dutch - German

Position of the course

The aim of this study unit is to train various skills required for the technique of consecutive interpretation, whereby the interpreter makes structured and concise notes, using symbols where necessary, while the speaker delivers a speech in the source language. The interpreter uses these notes to translate the original message into the target language after a few minutes' delay. The skills that are trained include memory, listening, comprehension in the source language, summarising and formulation in the target language.

Students with Dutch as A-language should be able to transpose a text (speech) from Dutch into German which is understandable to the listener, paying due attention to the internal cohesion of the text and the essence of the message, without too many omissions, presented in a pleasant style in a standard language that is acceptable to a mother-tongue listener.

Students with German as A-language should be able to transpose a text (speech) from Dutch into German which is understandable to the listener, paying due attention to the internal cohesion of the text and the essence of the message, without too many omissions, presented in a pleasant style in a correct, rich and idiomatic standard language and a suitable register.

Contents

Attention is paid to both an accurate and efficient note-taking technique and to understanding and interpreting texts (speeches) on a wide range of topics. We start with relatively simple and well-structured texts (speeches) that are not too demanding in terms of technique and skills, but gradually, we move on to more challenging topics and the bar is constantly raised. The interpreting exercises are assessed individually and by peer assessment, depending on the skills that need to be practised (comprehension, analysis, synthesis, formulation, note-taking, memory, public speaking, etc.).

Initial competences

The student:

- has an excellent command of German and Dutch, whereby Dutch, or German, is the A-language selected by the student;
- has a very broad general knowledge about a wide range of topics, including politics, economics, culture, technology and science;
- is stress-resistant and displays sustained powers of concentration.

Final competences

- 1 The student is able to interpret a speech of some length consecutively from Dutch into German.
- 2 Moreover, in doing so, the student with Dutch as A-language is able to achieve a professional level in terms of faithfulness to the original, synthetic skills, formulation skills, pronunciation and presentation, as well as a level of use of the standard language and pronunciation that is acceptable to a mother-tongue listener.
- 3 The student with German as A-language is able to achieve a professional level of faithfulness to the original, synthetic skills, formulation skills, pronunciation and presentation and in terms of use of a correct, rich and idiomatic standard language and a suitable register.

Course content-related study coaching

As the interpreting assignments are continually assessed, both individually and in group, the student gains an insight into the progress made to date and any possible weaknesses. We constantly seek to remedy any shortcomings by setting individual tasks, and additional feedback is given in a mock conference, in which the entire team of lecturers is involved.
