Keywords
Zoning, town and country planning, urban planning, building licences, parcelling out, administrative law

Position of the course
This course provides a structured overview of current zoning law in Flanders, as appears from statutory law as from case law.

Contents
The course starts with a short introduction into the general purposes of urban planning and zoning law, a short history of the law of urban planning and zoning and the political constitutional framework within which zoning law is developed. The next part concerns the system and hierarchy of several urban plans such as plans of outlay and structure plans. The next part concerns the legal possibilities for the different public authorities to realise the urban plans (taking parcelling out, regulation, building codes). The next part concerns the realisation of the urban plans through private initiative (building licences and private parcelling out). In the next chapters deal with the administrative appeals, the compensation for losses of market value of land land due to planning decisions, the system of sanctions, an overview of related regulations (protection of monuments, environmental law, economic expansion, etc...).
