Keywords

Dutch, literature, Middle Ages, narratology, modern prose

Position of the course

This basic course aims at providing an insight into major authors, writings and developments within Dutch literature, from the Middle Ages to the present day. At the same time, students will be introduced in the basic concepts, contents and skills of literary studies in general, and those of the Dutch region in particular.

Contents

The lectures offer a survey of Dutch literature, starting from the present day and returning to the Middle Ages. Each lecture centers around one characteristic work, of which the students are expected to have read it on beforehand, guided by an assignment. By doing so, the students are offered knowledge on and an insight in the literary-historical context in which the discussed works have their origin. Next, selected passages are discussed, and students are introduced into the basic concepts and skills of Dutch literary studies. The students independently carry out a digital assignment, in which heuristic skills, imparted in the lectures, will be tested. Students have a writing assignment in which they summarize a passage from a literary-historical work (c. 750 words).

Exercises: analysis of modern prose. In two sessions, four modern novels (c. 1880 - c. 1960) are discussed in groups by means of the narratological concepts with which the students have become acquainted during the lectures. For one of the sessions, the students make a partial analysis, and present it to their fellow students. Afterwards, the result will be discussed within the groups. The exercises are accompanied by a writing assignment (c. 750 words).

Initial competences

none

Final competences

- 1 To apply knowledge of the Dutch literary traditions to the reading and analysis of texts and to the placing in a literary-historical and stylistic context.
- 2 To have insight into the nature, function and origin of the most important genres of the Middle Dutch literature.
- 3 To have insight into the most important problems and methods of the literary historical research.
- 4 To be able to find information in (digital) databases and other sources, and to handle this information in a critical way.
- 5 To be able to analyse literary texts and to relate them to their literary historical framework, and to present the results of that analysis.
- 6 To be able to reflect critically on the relation between literature and reality in the Middle Ages.
- 7 To think analytically on (cultural)historical, literary theoretical and linguistic problems.
- 8 To have an eye for the relations between languages, literatures and cultures.
- 9 To have a strong linguistic awareness: valuing the crucial role of language in human interaction and cultural production and handling language according to that awareness.
- 10 To show an attitude of intellectual curiosity and lifelong learning.
- 11 To be able to apply the already mastered language proficiency in Dutch in oral and written assignments.

Course content-related study coaching

Students are coached by the teachers.

In the formal lecture students will be offered reading instructions for the works which will be central in the lectures. Students can ask further information at all time. In the exercise classes there is permanent monitoring, both with regard to the preparation as to the oral or written presentation of the assignments.

Evaluation methods

end-of-term evaluation and continuous assessment

Examination methods in case of periodic evaluation during the first examination period

Written examination

Examination methods in case of periodic evaluation during the second examination period

Written examination

Examination methods in case of permanent evaluation

Oral examination, participation, assignment

Possibilities of retake in case of permanent evaluation examination during the second examination period is possible in modified form

Extra information on the examination methods

Periodical evaluation: written exam concerning the discussed texts, subjects and skills, according to the final competences

Non-periodical evaluation: presentation (= oral exam) and cooperation, writing assignment, digital assignment

Calculation of the examination mark

Periodical evaluation: 80% of the total score

Non-periodical evaluation: 20% of the total score

In the case of an unjustified absence for or non-participation in (one of the parts of) the evaluation, the student will receive a non-deliberative final score (max. of 7/20). This goes for the periodical as well as for (the different parts of) the non-periodical assessment moments.

Nota bene: if a student violates the d/t-rules two times or more in the written parts of the periodical evaluation (PE), (s)he will loose 1 point for every mistake (s)he makes for the PE, with a maximum of 3 penalty points. In the evaluation of the written parts of the non-periodical evaluation, content, style, spelling and the incorporating and correct reporting of the used sources will be taken into account.
