Teaching languages

Dutch, English, German, Spanish, French, Italian, Swedish

Keywords

Seminar, linguistics, qualitative and quantitative research methodology, data gathering and analysis, research reporting, presentation

Position of the course

This advanced course wants to initiate students in independent linguistic research and scientific reporting.

Contents

This advanced course gives thorough insight in the practical application of different methods for linguistic research. It teaches the students to execute autonomous linguistic research by analysing a linguistic object qualitatively or quantitatively, and by reporting on this research in the form of a presentation and/or paper. The course is designed as a methodological accompaniment to the bachelor paper.

This seminar consists of three parts: i) video tutorials (Ufora) (7,5h) on general methodology, heuristics and ICT in linguistics; ii) three methodological tracks of 7,5h ; iii) language-specific sessions (15h) during which students are divided into groups per language.

Initial competences

To have successfully followed General Linguistics and the linguistics courses per language studies, or to have acquired the end competences of those courses in another way.

Final competences

- 1 To develop and answer a research question.
- 2 To have a thorough knowledge of different methodological approaches in linguistics.
- 3 To analyse a linguistic object by choosing one or more linguistic methods.
- 4 To critically evaluate paradigmatic and methodological choices.
- 5 To perform linguistic research individually and/or in group.
- 6 To report on research in a scientifically correct way.
- 7 To master the basic heuristics of linguistics, more specifically with respect to the study of the object language (to retrieve publications, to localize them in the library and to constitute a reference list according to the international standards)
